SECTION A: READING

I) Read each passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Passage 1:

1. It was the first day of April. Charlie came home from school and found a tramp sitting in the kitchen, warming himself at the stove. He was not surprised to see a tramp there as they usually dropped in at their house for a drink or meal. His mother had said a tramp was quite harmless. But it was strange that his mother was nowhere to be found.
2. “Mother! Mother!” Charlie called loudly. There was no reply. The tramp did not speak, but he raised his head and looked at Charlie, who was getting more nervous. He was the roughest looking tramp Charlie had ever seen, with bushy black whiskers and fierce eyebrows. Charlie wanted to run out of the house, but then he thought, “No, I can’t get out and leave a tramp here with nobody else around”.
3. Then the tramp spoke, “I am hungry. Bring me some food”. Charlie said, “My mother always asks the men who come here for food, to do some work for her before she feeds them”. He was careful to be polite and not say ‘tramps’. The old fellow shook his head and said, “Got a backache.”
4. What was Charlie to do? He tried once more and said very politely, “I am sorry about the backache. But just get one pail of water from the well and I will give you some food.” Suddenly the tramp spoke, “You win, Charlie.” Before Charlie could run, the tramp pulled off his hat, whiskers and eyebrows...and there sat his mother! “April fool!” she said, and began to laugh. Of course it was April 1st and Charlie had forgotten about it.

Passage 2:

1. Bread has become an important part of our diet. It is eaten during breakfast, with soups, as a sandwich meal and even as a snack. But did you know that the bread has been a part of man's diet since prehistoric times? Egyptians were making bread about 4,000 years ago. The ancient Romans even had public ovens in which they would bake their daily supply of bread.

2. It was during the Industrial Revolution that there was a rising demand for bread. Bakers had to get up before sunrise to make bread for breakfast. Generally, there are two main kinds of bread that are baked – unleavened bread which is flat, and leavened bread where yeast is used to make the dough rise, as a result it is soft and fluffy.

3. Today, there are many different kinds of bread. Some examples are wholemeal, pita and French bread. Bread even comes sliced and sold in a packet. With the advent of mini electric bread-makers, it is no longer confined to the bakeries. The possibilities of a myriad varieties of the once humble bread have become limitless.
